SUMMARY

The expertise of persons employed ashore and related to maritime affairs varies, and insufficient utilization of experienced seafarers for work on land has been noticed. The aforementioned creates an opportunity, in a business sense, for suitably qualified and experienced ship personnel.

The project "Sea4Shore" (Seafarer's experience appealing for shore) aims to develop an online tool that would help seafarers in choosing a career on land. For the input data of the tool, an analysis will be made of the skills and competencies possessed by seafarers in certain positions, which they could also use for jobs ashore.
